A Debutante in New York Society.

HER ILLUSIONS AND WHAT BECAME OF THEM. By RACHEL BUCHANAN. 12mo, cloth, 363 pp. Price, $1.25.

A vivid picture of social life in New York, depicting what a young woman possessing beauty, accomplishments, and moderate wealth undergoes at the hands of a managing mother and ambitious relatives. The book is a revelation of some of the phases of high life in the metropolis. The story is told in a series of animated and eminently readable Letters.

H

A Nymph of the West.

A NOVEL. By Howard Seely. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50 cents.

A vivid, picturesque romance of life on a Western ranch, written with exceptional beauty of style. The heroine is a charming creation such as novel-readers will welcome with delight.

III

Ignorant Essays.

By Richard Dowling. Uniform with Sir John Lubbock's "Pleasures of Life." 12mo, paper cover. Price, 25 cents.

"Clever and quaint conceits . . . reflections often striking and always independent."-London Post.

D. APPLETON & CO., PUBLISHERS, NEW YORK.

"Summer Reading."

The Summer Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY," issued for several years in imprint editions, will this year take "a new departure" under the title of "Summer Reading."

There will be a pretty and attractive cover, in light tints, from a design specially made for the number.

There will be illustrations from new or standard summer books, tastefully arranged and well printed.

There will be bright, original papers on topics of the season, as "A Summer Tour on Paper," noting the fresher books on summer places from Maine to California, and so around the world; "Summer Sports," referring to books on games and outdoor amusements; "For Rainy Days," covering cards and other indoor games; and other articles, besides pleasant extracts from new books and a sprinking of poems.

There will also be representative lists of books of various sorts, "The New Novels," "Outdoor Games and Sports," "Books of Travel," etc.

The price will be kept at the old rates, $3.50 for 100; $8.00 for 250; $15.00 for 500, for advance orders. Late orders can be filled, if at all, only at a higher price.

Get the best—the oldest—and the newest!

Directions for shipping should be given with the order. If sent by mail, postage must be charged extra.

NOTES IN SEASON.

GINN & Co. have just ready "Wentworth's New Plane Geometry;" "Fowler's Thucydides," Part 5, text edition; "Stein's German Exercises," and "Lockwood's Lessons in English."

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have just published "Summer Legends," translated from the German of Rudolph Baumbach, by Mrs. Helen B. Dole; and "Life," by Count L. N. Tolstof, translated from manuscript by Miss Isabel F. Hapgood, a work said to contain brilliant passages against the popular fear of death.

D. APPLETON & Co. have nearly ready "A Débutante in New York Society," by Rachel Buchanan, a fashionable girl's experience of high life; "A Nymph of the West," a novel, by Howard Seely, a romantic picture of reach life with a Seely, a romantic picture of ranch life, with a charming heroine; and Richard Dowling's " Ignorant Essays," said to be full of "clever and quaint conceits."

TICKNOR & Co. publish to-day "Homestead Highways," by Herbert M. Sylvester, the author of "Prose Pastorals;" "A Dictionary of Lowland Scotch," by Charles Mackay, giving in the appendix a list of Scotch proverbs; "The Pilgrim Republic," by John A. Goodwin, an historical review of the colony of New Plymouth, with sketches of the rise of other New England settlements, a history of Congregationalism and the creeds of the period; and "Sketches Abroad," by J. A. Schweinfurth, containing thirty plates of old French manor-houses and châteaux. On May 5, Clara Burnham's "Next Door" was added to the Ticknor's Paper series of novels, and on May 19 W. D. Howells' "The Minister's Charge" will follow.

JOURNALISTIC.

Outing for May is handsomely illustrated and devoted to recreation, adventure, travel, and gentlemanly sport. Henry Chadwick furnishes his reminiscences of "Old Battles on the Base-Ball Field," Thomas Stevens gives an instalment of "Around the World on a Bicycle," and the records present an epitome of the prominent sporting events of the month.

THE Cosmopolitan for May has a lively article by Moncure D. Conway on the "Pedigree of the Devil," which is illustrated with a number of weird pictures, including four pages in color, one devoted to Mephistopheles and Margaret in the witch's kitchen; Miss Ethel Ingalls has a breezy article on the "Recent International Convention of Women in Washington;" and Edward Gordon Clark has a new theory upon the Bacon cipher and Shakespeare which makes Ignatius Donnelly's inspirations quite ordinary by its startling revelations.

THE Popular Science Monthly for June opens with a paper by Mr. Edward Atkinson on "The Surplus Revenue," in which he suggests a method of solving the great problem now before Congress that does not involve any conflict of economic policy between the two great parties; an article by Dr. George Harley on "The Effects of Moderate Drinking;" an article of interest to "Geological Tourists in Europe," by Alfred C. Lane, in which he indicates what formations and museums are to be found in different localities; and a fully illustrated article on "Whistles Ancient and Modern," by M. L. Gutode.

THE contributors to the May "No Name" number of Lippincott's Magazine, as guessed by the Philadelphia Press, are Henry Fawcett, who wrote "The Old Adam;" Henry D. Thoreau, who may have written "From Bacon to Beethoven;" Sidney Lanier, who doubtless wrote "Ding Dong;" Sidney Luska, to whom most people will attribute "Mr. Sonnenscheim's Inheritance, who is more likely the author of "The Portrait and the Ghost," while Professor H. H. Boyesen may have made the effort in Mr. Luska's former field; Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, whom we would suppose to be the author of "The House of Hate;" Joaquin Miller, who from internal evidence wrote "Among My Weeds;" Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, who will be set down as the author of "A Little Boy's Talk;" Helen Gray Cone, who wrote "Nebuchadnezzar's Wife," and Rebecca Harding Davis, who finds a congenial subject in "Old Delaware."

There are eighteen besides. He destroyed most of his many than the storyed most of his many tha title to this volume. There are eighteen besides. He destroyed most of his manuscripts, retaining about thirty sermons, from which these are selected, as defining his personal views upon disputed questions of faith. Dr. Hitchcock was a strict Trinitarian and believed the verbal inspiration of the Bible. The vast amount of knowledge he acquired in his studies for his lectures never for one moment made him waver on any point of doctrine. He is said to have had strong personal magnetism, but his sermons also read well.

The story opens on the seventh day of the siege of Jericho under Joshua, and strictly follows the Bible account of the fall of the city and the horrible slaughter of all the inmates by command of Joshua. Achan disobeyed the command and stole and hid some of the "accursed things" of Jericho, and his son Adriel, the hero of this modern version, saves and hides a beautiful Chaldean maiden, whom he has found in prayer before the female idol Ashtaroth. Success deserts the arms of Israel, a trial is made, and it is found that Achan's sin is the cause. Adriel confesses his guilt also and meets his punishment with the girl for whom he has doubted Jehovah and almost believed that the spell of Ashtaroth would save him.

The author has risen to high rank among the young poets who have written society verses. He now writes a story of New York City life introducing characters from all classes of society. The hero is found very poor and shabby and almost ready to commit suicide on a doorstep in Fifth Avenue by a member of the Impecunious Club. This club looks up good-looking talented men, puts them on their feet, introduces them to good families, and helps them win the affections of girls with money, upon condition that a percentage of the lady's capital shall after marriage be paid regularly toward the expenses of the club. Contains good hits at the humbugs of society and the arrogance of wealth.

THE FIRST STEPS TOWARD INTERNA-TIONAL COPYRIGHT.

AFTER fifty years of "marking time"-and sometimes taking steps backward-a bill looking toward international copyright has for the first time come to a vote in the Congress of the United States, and that vote has been successful. It is a curious fact that neither Senate nor House has ever before passed upon an international copyright measure, nothing ever having gone beyond the stage of report. All the more honor, therefore, to Senator Jonathan Chace, of Rhode Island, whose cordial interest in this cause and persistent devotion to the parliamentary progress of the bill have done so much to accomplish the first step toward righting a great wrong.

In speaking editorially of the passage of the bill, the New York Times says :

"The International Copyright Bill passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of nearly four to one, thirty-five Senators voting for it, of whom eleven were Democrats, and ten Senators only voting against it, all of whom were Democrats. It is now certain that the bill will pass the House if it can be reached, and whether that can be done remains to be seen. We are confident that it can be prevented only by unjustifiable tactics. We long ago pointed out what we considered the defects of the bill, and have not concealed our opinion that they are serious. But the bill has this supreme merit, that it makes a conditional recognition of the rights of literary property, and provides a certain degree of protection for such property for foreign authors, which will also be accorded to our own. It has the hearty support of all interests directly affected by it, and this fact has been so clearly made known to the Senate that the bill has received an extraordinary support in that body. It should receive no less in the House."

This states fairly and forcibly the general opinion as to the Chace-Breckenridge measure. It is an act modifying domestic law in the direction of international copyright, which has in it many features not acceptable to the leaders in copyright agitation among authors and publishers but which is an approach toward justice to home authors and payment to foreign ones. The suggestion of one or two Senators, that it is the scheme of a general ring of publishers, has no foundation whatever in fact. In the publishers' committee as well as in that of the authors, a less restrictive bill would have been preferred, but it was felt that this was the measure which had the chance of success, and any approach toward the right was better than keeping in the wrong. We trust the bill may be received in the same spirit by the House, and that the Fiftieth Congress will take to itself the credit of raising the United States out of its present anomalous position among the nations.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Evening Post, writing from Ann Arbor, Michigan, points out how onerous is the burden on writers, of the postal rates for manuscript, which although nominally the same as that for letters, two cents per ounce, is practically double the letter rate because matter for publication is written on one side only of the leaf. A pound of manuscript requires 32 cents postage, and if the writer is to enclose stamps for return, the cost is 64 cents, while on articles intended for foreign publication the burden is still greater. The correspondent adds: "There is no reason why a package of silk should be carried in the mail-bags for one cent per ounce, while a package of written literary matter must pay double that postage. Nor is there any good reason for the distinction between an article in manuscript and the same article in print; yet the postage on the former is four times that of the latter." His suggestion of remedy is an amendment making the rate on all written matter half a cent per ounce on any weight in cases of two ounces, letters being for the most part within that limit and manuscript above it. He thinks that a considerable benefit would thus be gained without injustice.

THE difficulty in postal matters is that any ratings but the simplest lose more than they gain to the public at large as well as to the department. We have more than once pointed out the importance of simplifying the existing rates, and all real postal progress is to be made in that direction. The original theory of the postal laws was that letters, which had to be individually handled and cared for, caused the bulk of the work and made the bulk of the revenue, and especially in the early days of this country, when newspapers were in their infancy, it was felt to be important to encourage these by making the rates as low as possible, indeed free within the county. postage on letters has been reduced in even greater proportion than that on newspapers, yet the ratio is still kept up. As a matter of fact, however, where newspapers are individually delivered, they are of scarcely less trouble than letters. All of which means that our existing postal rates, and indeed any system of postal rates, can be attacked from many sides with much show of justice. At the same time, it would be impossible to give up the present letter rates without reducing the revenues of the department very seriously, while to put into operation the particular modification which the correspondent suggests would entail complication, which of all things is to be avoided. It is not easy to provide a remedy of this kind, except by classing manuscript as printed matter, which would certainly be difficult, or by making a general rate for all postal matter, which is not at present within the view of postal reformers.

THERE seems to be some confusion as to the agency for the United States of Walter Scott's popular and admirable English series. Mr. Thos. Whittaker has understood that in buying editions of these works he was to have the market for the United States, as he announces in our advertising columns. Messrs. W. L. Gage & Co., Toronto, claim that their territory covers United States as well as Canada. We regret to say that there have been previous cases where English publishers have by no means made it clear as to what they sell in selling editions for America, sometimes purposely, and sometimes inadvertently. There should always be a clear understanding in this matter, and we trust the fault of Mr. Scott is to be put in the latter rather than in the former category.

Two important and significant changes are to be noted in these "moving times"—the absorption in Cleveland of the veteran firm of Cobb, Andrews & Co. into the enterprising house of Burrows Bros. & Co., and the sale by Norman L. Munro to the John W. Lovell Co. of the plates of his 12mo cheap novels, which will give the lastnamed house an extraordinary line of cheap books. We are sorry to say good-by to a house of so long and honorable standing as our old Cleveland friends, yet glad to recognize new evidence of the remarkable vigor and enterprise of a house which in so few years has built up so large and prosperous a trade.

THE changes in the Chace Copyright Bill from time to time have been so numerous that we are glad to record the publication in the Evening Post of April 30 of a most minute and painstaking statement of the several editions which have been printed.

PASSAGE OF THE COPYRIGHT BILL BY THE SENATE.

THE International Copyright Bill passed the Senate, Wednesday, May 9, at 4 o'clock, much to the relief, says the Times report, "of Mr. Chace, who has worked early and late for the success of the measure and has seen it pushed aside more than once for other bills of no greater or less importance. The Rhode Island Senator was perfectly confident that the bill would pass whenever the vote was reached, and he wasted no time in replying to criticisms made upon the measure to-day. When the bill was taken up the pending question was on the amendment by Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, to strike out the provision prohibiting the importation into the United States of any copyrighted book or other article, The vote on this amendment was 11 to 26, not a quorum voting. After a call of the Senate had shown the presence of 48 Senators Mr. Jones withdrew his amendment, as it was evident that it had few supporters. Mr. Vance then proposed so to amend the bill as to prohibit the copy-righting of newspapers, periodicals, and magazines, and made his amendment the text for a brief argument against the whole bill. He held that a copyright was essentially a monopoly, and that an international copyright was doubly a monopoly, and in that respect doubly offensive. Mr. Vance declared his belief that the bill would enhance the price of all knowledge here and in Europe, and he desired to stand for cheap literature in the shape of newspapers, magazines, and periodicals. The assertion that the act would cheapen books he regarded as 'an aged and venerable chestnut.' If it did not increase the cost of literature there would be no demand for it. Mr. Vance earnestly contended that the whole scheme of the bill was one based on protection -to tax the people that a few might grow rich. It was a grand international conspiracy of publisher, printers, and authors to make knowledge and literature dearer, and protection was at the bottom of it sure. Mr. Vance feared that if the bill became a law it would not be long before every edition of the commonest newspaper was copyrighted and made dearer, and he could see no reason why the very fountain of all civilization and advancement in this world should be made more costly and inaccessible to the people. Mr. Vance asked for a yea and nay vote on his amendment. Twelve Senators supported it, and 28 killed it. Mr. Teller then announced that he Twelve Senators supported it, and was opposed to the bill, and he offered a new section, declaring that it should remain in force five years and no longer. It did not require a roll-call to kill this proposition. Mr. Blair said he did not like the bill, but would vote for it, and Mr. George and Mr. Saulsbury said they did not like it and would not vote for it. the final vote was about to be taken Mr. Vance called attention to the fact that the House had just sent to the Senate a bill giving $20,000,000 to open our harbors and rivers to foreign commerce, while the statute-books contained a tariff to keep that commerce out. The Senate had passed a bill to appropriate $78,000,000 for the education of the people, and now it was passing another bill to make knowledge more costly. That Mr. Vance's comments made no impression on the Senate was evident when the bill was put upon its passage, for only 10 Senators opposed the measure, while 35 voted for it. The affirmative votes were thrown without regard to party lines, but the 10 negatives came from the following Democrats: Messrs. Berry, Call, Eustis, Jones of Arkansas, Pugh, Ransom, Reagan, Saulsbury, Vance, and Walthall."

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

COPYRIGHT IN THE DICTIONARY OF CONGRESS

AMONG the bills recently introduced into Congress, says a special despatch to the Tribune, by Mr. Cox, of New York, is one for the relief of Charles Lanman because of the infringement by Congress of his rights under the law of copyright. The leading point of the claim seems to be that after Congress had published three large editions of the "Dictionary of Congress," paying the author a royalty of $1 per copy, the Printing Committee proposed to purchase the copyright for $50,000, and when the author refused the offer it was decided to utilize the plan as well as the language and facts of the dictionary for the Congressional Directory, which has now been done for twenty years. The pending bill is for the payment of $60,000.

SELLING ENGLISH BOOKS IN AMERICA.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: " It is understood that if the American copyright bill should become a law our publishers will send to America the manuscripts of well-known authors whose books are certain to command a sale on both sides of the Atlantic, and will receive back the stereo moulds. In this way the loss to the English printing business will be minimized. Of course books by unknown writers which attain unexpected popularity will have to be printed twice.'

FRENCH AUTHORSON AMERICAN COPYRIGHTS.

On the question of international copyright Emile Augier says: "When America, in buying French plays, lays down as a condition that the author shall only print his plays two or three years afterward, that country at the same time recognizes our rights and transgresses them. Such inconsistency is a mar to the logical character and uprightness of a great nation." Alexander Dumas declares that he "confidently looks forward to a day when the sense of justice of the American people will in the end triumph over the interests of a handful of piratical publishers." Jules Claretie says that "a literary work should enjoy throughout the world the same rights that it is sure to find in the country where it was written;" and M. Zola rids himself of this outburst: "I have no overweening tenderness for the Americans, who not only translate my works in an ignoble manner, but rob me with downright impudence."

COPYRIGHT IN JAPAN.

JAPAN has a new copyright and publication code, of which the Publishers' Circular, London, gives a summary specially trans'ated for its columns. Among the provisions as to books are the following, which are worth noting as showing in some respects an advance over more "civilized" nations. The provisions as to newspapers are singularly restrictive, confining editorship to Japanese subjects over twenty years of age, who may not also be the publishers, and providing expressly for the correction of misstatements, and against report of unpublished official documents or of criminal matters before public trial.

The term of book copyright is for life and five years after, with term of thirty-five years from month of registration, in event of author's early death. If an author dies without known heirs, any person desiring to publish his book may advertise his desire and may proceed to publish at the end of six months' notice, provided no claim-

To register copyright, notice of the name, with three copies of the work, must be sent to the Department of State ten days previous to publication, and before publication a sum of money corresponding to the value of six finished copies of the work must be transmitted. The words "copyright secured" must be printed on each copy, or the registration is void.

Of collected reports of lectures or speeches, the speaker is regarded as the author, and the copyright shall belong to him, save that if the reporter has published with the speaker's consent, the copyright shall belong to the reporter. A speaker cannot be held responsible for reports published without his consent. Of compilations, the compiler, and of translations, the translator is regarded as the author, and the copyright belongs to him.

The Minister of State may prohibit or seize works prejudicial to the public peace or detrimental to morals.

Only those actually engaged in the sale of works of literature or art, or an author or his heir, shall be recognized as publishers. In printing, an author must print on his work his name and the date of printing, and if for publication, the name and address of the publisher.

A publisher who neglects to print these particulars is subject to a fine of from $25 to $50, and fraudulent particulars subject the offender to imprisonment for from one to six months or to a fine of $5 to $100.

Those counterfeiting a literary work, or selling manuscript copies thereof, are liable for damages to the copyright-holder, and any person infringing or imitating, or importing and selling foreign counterfeits, shall be treated as a counterfeiter, and those knowingly dealing in counterfeits shall be liable, on suit of the injured party, to imprisonment of from one month to a year, or to fine of $20 to $300.

It is understood that Japan purposes to become a party to the International Copyright Union.

THE TRADE CHANGE IN CLEVELAND OHIO.

IT is long since the book-trade has had a greater surprise than the announcement that the great establishment of Cobb, Andrews & Co. has been bought out by its young competitors, the Burrows Brothers Publishing Co.

So sudden and unexpected was this deal between two of the largest book firms in the West that it will create widespread astonishment, but the arrangement will undoubtedly prove beneficial to all concerned. The retiring members of the firm which passes out of existence have well earned the rest they are now in condition to enjoy, and their successors and former rivals have shown a capacity insuring their success in the gigantic enterprise they have undertaken by the consolidation of the two immense and flourishing establishments. By this consolidation Cleveland becomes the seat of what is undoubtedly the largest book establishment of the entire Central and Western

"The energy and tact of the Burrows Brothers," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "have now placed them at the front in the book business in this region. Their advancement has been meteor-like. A few years ago they were comparatively unknown. To-day they have the proud satisfaction of having purchased the entire stock and the good-will of their only great and formidable rival. They have one of the most elegant stores in the world, a veritable book palace, and there is no longer any one to dispute their supremacy in the trade. Their guiding principles have been to sell goods at the lowest rates consistent with stability of business and to treat all customers alike. On that basis they have attained their present preëminence, and on that basis they propose to continue.

"The long-established firm of Cobb, Andrews & Co. has been many years one of the most conspicuous of the solid mercantile houses in this city, and its business had attained a magnitude of which the partners perhaps never dreamed in their earliier years. The disappearance of the firm from the face of the earth, so to speak, will be a personal affliction to thousands of people who have been accustomed to look upon that concern as a sort of literary Mecca. The gentlemen of the firm have sold out as a cold, unsentimental business transaction, of course, and because they found profit in it. The Messrs. Cobb, after more than half a century of active life, desire to retire from the cares of an exacting business in order to enjoy the competence they have acquired. They are ready to give way to younger men, and in withdrawing from the field they no doubt feel gratified in the assurance that their successors are every way qualified and worthy to take up the sceptre where they lay it down, and to wield it with grace and wisdom."

A glance at the personnel of the Burrows Brothers Publishing Co. will not be amiss. It is an incorporated concern with a board of five directors; these are Mr. Charles W. Burrows, President; Mr. Harris B. Burrows, Treasurer and General Manager; Mr. Byron E. Helman, Secretary; Mr. William E. Ward and Mr. J. Will Cobb.

The Messrs. Burrows were both initiated into the book business in the well-known publishinghouse of Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Boston, a most excellent training-school for the trade. are both natives of New England, claiming Maine as a birthplace, and their success shows that they combine in a marked degree the literary proclivities of the New Englanders with the shrewd business traits of the proverbial down-easter. Byron E. Helman became a member of the firm in 1886 and brought in a large capital. Mr. William E. Ward has special charge of the retail department. Mr. J. Will Cobb is a native of Cleveland and a son of Mr. J. B. Cobb, the senior member of the late house of Messrs. Cobb, Andrews & Co. He has been in the book business for fifteen years, serving his apprenticeship with Cobb, Andrews & Co., and then accepting a responsible position with the well-known house of Messrs. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago. In 1886 he entered the wholesale department of the Burrows Brothers Co. The junior partners of the retiring firm, W. R. Austin and F. R. Hale, will also be associated with the Burrows Brothers

In order to gain sufficient room for the vast combination of the two stocks of books, the company have rented three stories of the Baker Block on Superior Street, in the rear of their Euclid Avenue store, and will connect them with the latter by means of bridges at each floor. Until this block is ready for occupancy, they have rented the old Cobb, Andrews & Co. store, which they will occupy for four months. That the house will follow up the immense advantages gained for it by its recent heavy purchase of the Cobb, Andrews & Co. business cannot be doubted. We heartily echo the Cleveland Sun and Voice in its wish that it may steadily advance in its thoroughly deserved career of prosperity.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Boston.—H. I. Smith, agent for Clark & Maynard, has removed to 5 Somerset St.

CHARLOTTE, MICH.—A. T. Mears, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

CINCINNATI, O.—Thomas Morton, bookseller, etc., has sold out.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Burrows Brothers Co. purchased, May 2, the entire stock and good-will of Messrs. Cobb, Andrews & Co. Settlements for all bills previous to this date should be made to Cobb, Andrews & Co.; after this date address all orders to the Burrows Brothers Co.

NASHUA, N. H.—R. T. Smith & Co., booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

NEW YORK CITY.—New York Agency of Willard Tract Repository is removed to 354 Fourth Avenue. H. H. B. Angell, New York Agent.

NEW YORK CITY.—Percy A. McGeorge, steam printer, having removed to 220 and 222 William St., and greatly increased his facilities, is prepared to supply the wants of his patrons.

NEW YORK CITY.—Fleming H. Revell has removed his New York office from 150 Nassau St. to 12 Bible House. Mr. S. Edgar Briggs, for six years with the Willard Tract Depository at Toronto, is the manager.

NEW YORK CITY .- Notwithstanding the "neckand-neck" competition in the "library" publication business the John W. Lovell Co. see a future for it, and invest a quarter of a million in buying out Mr. Norman L. Munro, one of their most formidable rivals. Mr. Munro will still issue his weekly papers, but has sold all his copyright and non-copyright publications, comprising 825 sets of plates and 1,500,000 copies of the books printed from them. The Lovell Co. will issue these books to the trade through their own travellers and local agents at 50% discount. The twentyfive cent edition of the Munro Library will be Both parties to this transaction discontinued. have had experience, and it is safe to say have figured that both will profit by it.

NEW YORK CITY.—The English company trading under the name of Marcus Ward & Co. consists of Francis D. Ward and W. H. Ward, the sons of the original founder of the house, and several minor stockholders. Francis D. Ward is the President and elder brother, while W. H. Ward is a director. During the Centennial year the New York house was started at the instigation of the younger brother, and Alfred Ireland, his brother-in-law, who was at that time engaged in the wholesale paper trade in Philadelphia, was placed in charge of the business since carried on at 734 Broadway. For some time past there has been some friction between the brothers Ward in England as to the management of the American branch. John Glenn was appointed by the President to take charge of it after the 1st of May, Mr. Ireland receiving notice that such action was made necessary. Mr. W. H. Ward directed Mr. Ireland to renew the lease of the premises in his name, which was done. Mr. Glenn interpreting this action as an attempt to prevent him from taking charge, dismissed all the employés, and acting under advice of counsel took possession of the premises. The counsel for W. H. Ward, who is now in this country, state that nothing has as yet been definitely decided as to the outcome of this peculiar state of affairs. It is hoped all will soon be amicably arranged. In the meantime the business is still going on under the management of Mr. Glenn, and assurances have been given that there is no cloud on the credit of the company nor any reason why the trade should hesitate to send in their orders, nor fear that they will not be promptly filled.

OMAHA, NEB.—The Omaha Book and Stationery Co. has removed to 1013 Saunders St., so we are informed by the proprietor, C. J. Canan.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The business of E. J. Buckley (formerly Buckley, Morton & Co.), publisher and bookseller, has been purchased by the Thompson Publishing Co., and transferred to their headquarters at 225 South 6th Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—John W. Roberts, dealer in books and stationery, who failed in January last, shows liabilities of $60,000 and assets of $51,000, and has asked his creditors to give him a further extension, as follows: 25 cents cash, 12½ cents in six months, or 12½ cents in twelve months and the remaining 50 cents in five years. At a meeting of his Eastern creditors held Tuesday, May 1, at the Stationers' Board of Trade, it was voted to accept the above proposition and to recommend that it be accepted by all. Among the firms represented were Fred. A. Stokes & Bro.; Kiggins & Tooker Co.; White & Allen; Charles Taber & Co.; L. Prang & Co.; C. T. Bainbridge's Sons; A. C. Armstrong & Son; J. C. Blair; Mabie, Todd & Co.; Wolf Brothers, and the Whiting Paper Company.

SHELTON, CONN.—The failure of E. C. Maltby and the Standard Publishing Company of Shelton, Conn., was announced Saturday, May 5, both making assignment to ex-Mayor A. E. Hewitt, of Shelton. The failure is due to the burning of the factory some time ago.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. DARROW & Co. have just published "The Pioneer Period of Western New York," by Chipman P. Turner.

W. A. GREENOUGH & Co. have just published the "Boston Business Directory for 1888," a large octavo volume of over 800 pages.

WALTER H. BAKER & Co., Boston, have just issued "George Riddle's Readings," including a number of sketches especially written for Mr. Riddle by John T. Wheelwright.

Belford, Clarke & Co. have just published "A Slave of Circumstances," by Ernest De Lancey Pierson, a novel showing up the shams of society, the makeshifts of the poor, and life behind the scenes in various stratas of New York City life.

The Johns Hopkins University, through its publication agency, has just issued a "History of Coöperation in the United States," made up of papers by graduate students of the University, with an introduction by Prof. Richard T. Ely.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS have just issued a new edition of "Nana," by Emile Zola, at the low retail price of 25 cents a copy. Booksellers are advised to send in their orders at once for this new edition as well as for the other Zola novels on the list of the publishers.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have just published "American Street Railways," by Augustine W. Wright, consulting engineer, who is qualified above most men to explain the construction, equipment, and maintenance of these necessary evils of large cities.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. announce as the next volume in the Badminton Library, "Boating," written by no less authorities than the Rev. Dr. Warre, of Eton, and Mr. W. B. Woodgate, and illustrated with instantaneous photographs and drawings by Mr. Frank Dadd. Later we are promised the volume on "Cricket," to which Mr. A. G. Steel, Mr. Andrew Lang, Mr. R. H. Lyttelton, Mr. R. A. R. Mitchell, and Dr. W. G. Grace, will all contribute.

CHARLES EVERETT WARREN, M.D., will shortly issue through the Sun Press of Boston a little compilation of extracts gleaned from many odd and curious books, which he will call "Sorts." Extracts relating to the printing trade form the bulk of the little volume, which will be bound in silver boards with silver edges, the title being indented in a circle to represent a founder's mark, and the edges nicked, the book thus representing a quad. It will be printed on good book paper, red-lined.

In our issue of March 31 we published a letter from Messrs. Fords, Howard & Hulbert, warning the trade that a young German was going about obtaining books through forged orders written upon their note-paper. We learn that this young man has not yet been caught, and that on Saturday, May 5, he appeared to Mr. J. W. Bouton and attempted to obtain a set of the de luxe edition of Dickens, but failed. He is said to be about twenty-five years old, with light complexion and smooth face, and he is about six feet high.

CASSELL & Co., on May 10, inaugurated a new series of novels to be known as Cassell's Sunshine Series of Choice Fiction and to appear at the rate of a novel a week at 50c. American novels will be a special feature of the series. The initial volume is by S. B. Alexander, a Boston author, and is just issued under the title of "The Veiled Beyond." In it the soul of an aged Buddhist enters the body of a young Bostonian and lives a new life, affording the author much scope for speculation. The house has made arrangements with the heirs of Sylvanus Cobb, and will publish in this series his novels which originally appeared in the New York Ledger.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have in preparation "Mr. Tangier's Vacations," a novel by Edward E. Hale; and "Roger Berkeley's Probation," a story by Helen Campbell. They will also issue shortly in paper covers for summer reading, "Signor Monaldini's Niece," "Kismet," and "The Colonel's Opera Cloak," three of the most celebrated of the famous No Name series; "A Week Away from Time;" "Some Women's Hearts," by Louise Chandler Moulton; "A Lad's Love," by Arlo Bates; "Button's Inn," by Judge Tourgee; "South County Neighbors," by Miss Carpenter; and "Ourselves and Our Neighbors," by Louise Chandler Moulton.

CUPPLES & HURD have in preparation "Ralph Waldo Emerson, his character and genius," by Amos Bronson Alcott, with portrait and charaacteristic illustrations; "Summer Cruise on the Coast of New England," by Robert Carter; "Social Life and Literature Fifty Years Ago," a valuable exposition of bygone times; "Iona: a lay of Ancient Greece," by Paul Erskine, a classic poem of great beauty; "The Best Surgical Dressing and Bullet Wound Treatment," by Dr. Otis K. Newell; "The Autobiography of Solomon Maimon," by Prof. J. Clark Murray; and "Wit, Wisdom, and Pathos," from the prose writings of Heine. Among the new novels for the summer will be "Miss Francis Merley," by John Elliott Curran, a noted contributor to Scribner's Magazine; and the "Autobiography of a New England Farm-House," a romance of Cape Cod. They have now ready the second edition of Phillimore's "How to Write the History of a Family," the seventh edition of "Whitmore Ancestral Tablets," the third edition of "What Shall Make Us Whole," and new editions of Prof. Murray's "Handbook of Psychology" and Hill's "Small Fruits."

HODDER & STOUGHTON have in press a new volume by Prof. Henry Drummond, entitled "Tropical Africa." It will contain an account of the author's recent travels in Central Africa, with one or two chapters on natural history, and notes regarding the latest phases of the slave-trade, and African politics generally. We hear that his "Natural Law in the Spiritual World" has now reached the extraordinary sale of 75,000 copies.

SWAN SONNENSCHEIN & Co. will publish next week an important work on Irish history, entitled "Ireland in '98." The book is based on the late Dr. R. R. Madden's "Lives of the United Irishmen," and contains the substance of those bulky volumes, besides much additional matter extracted from his unpublished Mss. It is edited by Dr. J. Bowles Daly, and illustrated with several portraits and reproductions of popular contemporary cartoons. Miss Annie Thomas' new novel, "Love's a Tyrant," will shortly be issued by this firm.

TRÜBNER & Co. announce a translation of Prof. Diodato Lioy's work on the philosophy of law, "Della Filosofia del Dritto," from the Italian. A third edition of the work, revised and enlarged, has just appeared. It has already been translated into German and French, and a translation into Spanish is also in preparation. The English translation will be made by Mr. W. Hastie, the translator of Kant's "Philosophy of Law," etc., and it will contain an introduction on the development of the philosophy of law in Italy.

ROBBING A CLUB LIBRARY.

WILLIAM FEATHERSTONE, who attends to the billiard-room of the University Club, at 26th St. and Madison Ave., was arraigned before Justice Ford at Jefferson Market Police Court, May 5, charged by H. C. Williams, librarian of the club, with stealing a large number of books from the library. The proprietor of the Arundel Book-store, in West 14th St., testified that Featherstone had, at various times during the month of March, sold him books. A few days ago the witness had read in the Publishers' Weekly an advertisement relating to certain books that had been stolen from the University Club's library and recognized as the missing property the volumes which Featherstone had sold to him. The examination of Featherstone was postponed.

The Presswork of the Publishers' Weekly, Literary News, Library Journal, etc., is done by this Press.

MR. THOMAS WHITTAKER begs to announce to the trade that he, by arrangement with Walter Scott, of London, continues to represent that publisher in the United States. The various monthly volumes (Camelot Series, Great Writers, Canterbury Poets, and Wilson's Tales of the Borders) will be kept in stock and supplied promptly, and at the best rates. The new issues as they appear will have Mr. Whittaker's imprint on the title-page in connection with that of the English publisher. This arrangement will, it is hoped, add largely to the convenience of the trade in handling these very popular books.

Just Published: SUMMER LEGENDS.

Translated from the German of Rudolph Baumbach by Mrs. Helen B. Dole. 12mo, gilt top, $1.25.

Rudolph Baumbach is the most spontaneous and sparkling modern German poet. He has Heine's wit without a trace of his bitterness.

Baumbach's prose is as fascinating as his poetry. It is limpid, simple, strong, and pure. His "Summer Legends" are remarkable for their fancy which is never trivial, their delicate humor which plays over the foibles of human nature but never stings, their quaint poetical flavor, and their adaptability to amuse and interest all classes of readers. Charmingly translated into simple, unaffected English, they deserve to become as classic and popular in America as they are in Germany, where they have had a phenomenal success.

LIFE.

By COUNT L. N. TOLSTOI. Translated from MS. by Miss Isabel F. Hapgood. 12mo, with portrait, $1.25

In this, the latest, work of Count Tolstoi's genius he elaborates his favorite idea that happiness of the individual must not be expected, but that by renunciation of it, the happiness of the race is to be subserved. He argues against the popular fear of death, showing that death is nothing worse than sleep, that life as we see it is a mere manifestation of the real life which was existent before and will be existent after death; in short, is the life of humanity. The work contains some very striking and brilliant passages of genuine eloquence and thoughts that will not fail to create much discussion, and still further stimulate the interest in this remarkable author.

We desire to call the special attention of the Trade to our increased facilities for conducting the book-jobbing business at our new and commodious place of business,

Nos. 740 and 742 Broadway.

We are confident there is no more varied or general stock of
